23rd November 2018

Tanzania Fundraising Day

On Friday 30th November, we are holding a non-uniform day and cake sale to raise funds for our sister school: Kinyariri, in Tanzania. Please can children bring a £1 donation for coming in non-uniform wearing the colours of the Tanzanian flag (green, yellow, black or blue). Please send in nut-free donations of cakes, buns and biscuits; gluten-free cake donations would also be greatly appreciated. These can be brought in anytime from Wednesday 28th November. We are so grateful for any donations, which will be sold at 3:25 on Friday.

Thank you from Mrs Donnelly and the JLT

Children in Need and Anti-bullying

We are pleased to say we raised £323.56 pounds for Children in Need and Anti-bullying Alliance thank you to everyone who contributed.

Heart Radio

This week, Heart radio came into school to record two of our children as part of their 'Sleeps to Christmas' promotion, which they will play on Heart radio in December! They had lots of fun and we will let you know which day our children's recording will be played.

Staying Safe

This week, the NSPCC have been into school to lead assemblies in each year group. Our number one aim at Southdale, is to ensure our children are safe and the NSPCC talked to children about having the right to speak out and stay safe. The children learned in more detail, about how to keep themselves free from harm and how to get help if they have any worries. We look forward to welcoming the NSPCC back into school next week for further workshops.

Year 3

At the start of the week, we had an unexpected visit from a doctor. Shockingly, it turns out that those books that have been disappearing for the last 2 weeks have not been stolen, they've been eaten!

Believe it or not, a young boy called Henry has developed a strange love of books but instead of reading them, he can't stop eating them. His obsessive behaviour has taken over his life and has made him quite ill.

The doctor has asked for our help to tell his story in order to warn other children about the signs and dangers of obsessive behaviours.

In maths this week, we have been looking at the addition and subtraction method and making sure that we understand how to exchange numbers. We have been practising showing our understanding in lots of different ways including using number lines, place value grids and columns. Even more exciting is the fact that we have begun casting for the Year 3 Nativity! With 92 children to think about, this is a mammoth task but we cannot wait.

Year 4

As usual, Year 4 have had a week filled with exciting learning! We started the week with our Narrative Curriculum drama. We transformed from villagers into silent observers in the form of trees where we watched the missing children meander through the forest and disappear into a sugarcoated gingerbread house. This has started our two-week writing block for a third person narrative description about the children in the forest.

In art, we have used observational skills to draw detailed trees. We use perseverance and creativity to make these as realistic as possible. Our sketching and shading techniques are improving through our hard work.

During this term, we will be working on rugby skills in PE. We have already had a few sessions with a coach who has been consolidating throwing and catching skills. The children are thoroughly enjoying this opportunity and showing some fantastic talent in the sport.

Year 5

Year 5 have had a fantastic week. Our drama work was based around Gunnar talking to a mysterious old man about his journey to Valhalla. Although helpful, the old man only had a partial map to help find his way. In role, our Year 5s have mapped out his dangerous and deadly journey to Bifrost in the Land of Ice and Fire. We are now in the process of analysing instructional texts, to ensure that we can give Gunnar the best instructions for his quest. We have also been analysing Viking artefacts and discovering the Viking chronology. In Maths, we have been looking at factors and square numbers. We also enjoyed another swimming lesson this week, with a focus on becoming more confident with the different strokes we learnt last half term.

Year 6

This week, in Year 6, we have been continuing our studies into prominent figures of both World Wars. We have examined and analysed biographies of Anne Frank and Winston Churchill, ready for writing our own biography of famous war poet Wilfred Owen.

Last week we held our first biscuit-tasting extravaganza. Members of 6ZR and 6RM have already shared their culinary talents with parents and relatives, whilst listening to wartime favourites on the wireless and sharing our war-themed work. Children have been given a letter to tell you when their cooking day is – make sure you do not miss out

In art: we started our next project. First, we sketched some silhouette soldiers, before studying the work of Banksy. We were so intrigued as to who he really is! Look out for our own designs soon...

In PE, we continued to learn the Lindy-Hop, before constructing our own dance routines based on various wartime scenarios.

Thank you for continuing to bring in your own learning based on our topic theme. We love it when you bring things in from home!

Have a great weekend!
